Dear Pheasant Hunter,

We are reaching out to you to let you know that WDFW recently became aware that the Port of Woodland acquired a large portion of the Woodland Bottoms pheasant release site in Southwest Washington. Because the Port does not allow any hunting on their property, the Department is cancelling the Woodland Bottoms hunt until further notice and no birds will be released at the site. Hunters have opportunities to hunt pheasants in other areas of the southwest region including Lincoln Creek (Lewis County), Kosmos (Lewis County), and Shillapoo Wildlife Area on the South and Vancouver Lake Units (Clark County). Hunters can find more information about these sites at <https://wdfw.wa.gov/publications/02100/>

We understand that this is a difficult situation for you, but the Department is looking at options to continue to provide pheasant hunting opportunities in this region.

Thank you for your support, interest, and participation in hunting in Washington.
